"I WILL," SAYS DUKE
IN DECISIVE TONE

American Woman Promises to "Obey, Love, Serve and Honor"

(By Associated Press)
By JOHN LLOYD

CHATEAU DE CANDE, Monts,
France, June 3.—The radiant Duke of Windsor took Wallis Warfield as his bride and duchess today in two ceremonies and dignified marriage ceremonies.

Just 25 weeks ago today he gave up his crown of England and empire because she could not be his queen.

"I will," the duke, supremely
happy answered in a firm, loud voice to the Anglican poor man's parson who gave him the unsanctioned blessing of the Church of England.

As far as I could see neither the duke nor anyone else kissed the bride.

He raised his voice so high in his eagerness to take the "woman I love" as his wife that he startled
the 34 guests in the flower-banked music room of this old chateau.

After him, his blue-eyed lady answered "I will". Her voice was just as firm as Edward's, but more hushed.

The religious service ended at 12:14 p. m. (6:14 a. m. in Salem)
after the wedding party had come in from highballs and cocktails on the terrace.

This burst of gaiety followed poly Dr. Charles Mercier's civil service as mayor of this hamlet.
The Anglican preacher who defied his bishops was the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, "poor man's" vicar of Darlington, England.

The American-born Duchess of Windsor, a member now of the British royal family although by royal decree she must not style herself "her royal highness", was clad in light "Wallis blue"—her husband's favorite shade—from head to foot.

Her blue costume was complemented by sparkling sapphire bracelets and earrings. From her small straw hat stemmed blue and pink feathers.

After the religious ceremony the duke and duchess led their guests back to the terrace. There, a wedding breakfast had been spread.

Edward made a short speech,
thanking "all of you people for coming on this occasion so important for us."

The breakfast was a friendly, informal gathering of those who had stayed by the former king's side after the December crisis in which he left his throne.

The bridal couple disappeared for a brief time and then returned to their company.

The duchess had changed to another costume and the duke had donned his cutaway for a blue serge suit.

Just five minutes after Monts' country physician-mayor began the French legal ceremony in the chateau salon, Wallis Warfield was the Duchess of Windsor, wed to the man who laid aside a crown to share that moment with her.

The next few minutes were spent in signing civil documents to comply with the French law.

He watched Dr. Mercier, bedecked in his red, white and blue sash of office, self-consciously hand the papers to the Monts' town crier,
who stuck them in an old leather case and bicycled feverishly back to the town hall.

"By one of those whims of destiny," the mayor told the bridal couple, "it is under the blue sky
and among the flowers of the garden of France, in the laughing val-

BRITISH READ
ABOUT WEDDING

One Newspaper Criticizes Church For "Lack Of Charity"

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 3.—The empire that former King Edward VIII forsook for love today read avidly of the wedding he preferred to a crown.

London newspapers broke their recent reticence about the Duke of Windsor and gave full attention to the wedding he preferred to a crown.

Under full length portraits of the duke and his new duchess in their wedding attire, the press gave the British public front page details of the wedding.

An un-enthusiastic note was sounded in the London newspapers by the Rev. R. Anderson Jardine, vicar of Darlington, England, who said the duke's wedding was a "lack of charity."

Along with complete details of the wedding, the liberal London
Star published a scathing editorial on "the church's attitude" and criticizing Anglican bishops for a
"lack of charity."

"No one contests the right of bishops to maintain discipline within the church or to express their views on marriage. But the narrowness of these statements will,
we believe, shock the public,"
the editorial said.

"Every sentiment of generosity to the fallen idol, of Christian forgiveness and of good taste dictates a truce to criticism on the day of the duke's wedding."

"The man has been tortured and wounded for months past by abusive letters, by public rebukes
and by private rebuffs."

"It is deplorable to think that the only utterances of the heads of the church on this day should be censorious of the clergyman who is invoking a blessing on the union."

7 "LITTLE TVA'S"
LATEST REQUEST
OF ROOSEVELT'S

President Asks Congress
To Establish Regional Authorities

POWER PROJECTS
WOULD BE AIDED

Safeguards Against Dust
Storms, Floods and Drouths Planned

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—President Roosevelt asked congress today to set up seven "regional authorities" to administer federal power projects and to plan safeguards against floods, drouths and dust storms.

A comprehensive program for the seven "little TVA's" was outlined in a special message.

It said the hydro-electric projects which have been or may be undertaken were part of a "multiple purpose" watershed development designed not only to guard against nature's calamities but to prevent their occurrence.

"The water-power resources of the nation must be protected from private monopoly and used for the benefit of the people," the President said in what was expected to be his last major legislative recommendation for this session.

Bills were ready for introduction
in both houses to carry out his suggestions.

The seven regional authorities or agencies would plan and in some cases administer projects in the following areas:

- 1—Atlantic seaboard.
- 2—Great Lakes and Ohio valley.
- 3—Tennessee and Cumber-
land rivers' drainage basin.
- 4—Missouri and Red river of the north drainage basins.
- 5—Arkansas, Red and Rio Grande drainage basins.
- 6—Colorado and rivers flowing into the Pacific south of the California-Oregon line.
- 7—Columbia river basin.

The President said he would leave undisturbed the existing Mississippi river commission because it was
"well equipped to handle the problems immediately attending the channel of that great river."

Declaring the proposal was in the "interest of economy and the prevention of overlapping or one-sided developments," Mr. Roosevelt said it would leave congress free to determine what projects should be undertaken within the limits of annual budgetary and national public works planning policies.

"If, for example," he said, "the congress could have had before it
at this session a complete picture of immediate and long-term needs
I think its task in providing for

Dr. Jesse LeRoy Miller of Grace Lutheran church, Youngstown, will lead the discussion in the afternoon on "Using Luther's Catechism in 1937."

Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Rev. Ralph R. Bergstresser is

Two-year-old Roy James Rubich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rubich of R. D. 5, Salem, was in Salem City hospital today suffering from chest injuries as the result of a traffic accident at his home Wednesday afternoon. His condition is described as "only fair."

Roy was in the yard with his mother yesterday afternoon when a Youngstown bakery truck pulled into the drive on a regular call.
Mrs. Rubich made a purchase and then walked toward the house.

The child, standing behind the truck, was knocked down. A neighbor, Frank Prantz, rushed the boy to the hospital.

The Masonic temple was transformed into a most attractive setting of flowers and colored star
streamers for the ladies night party last night when 200 Rotarians and their ladies from Salem,
Alliance and Warren assembled there.

Vases of flowers which graced the dining tables and filled other tables to form a floral spectacle
near the center of the large room,
were given to the ladies as favors.

The decorating committee was comprised of Aiden Gross, Ray Pearce and David Bevan of the Salem club.

This joint meeting of the three clubs celebrated the close of an attendance contest between the Alliance and Alliance Rotarians, and as losers by a narrow margin, the latter provided the program.

President Henry Hurlburt of the Salem club presided, and introduced Dillon Crist of Alliance, district governor; President William Herron and Secretary Chief Olds of Warren; President Freeman Mahan
and Secretary Charles Pettis of Alliance.

Between courses Oliver Wertum-berg, Herbert Downs and Mark Richards of the Warren club led in group singing, with Mrs. Ray Bartholomew of Salem at the piano.

As program chairman, Harry Keller of Alliance presented a varied entertainment. Humorous talks were given by Dr. C. L. Smith of Salem and Charles Peters of Min-nerva and several vocal selections
were given by the Harmonizing
Four, a colored male quartet of Alliance.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Cassaday & Turkle funeral home in Alliance. Burial will be in the Alliance City cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

Deadlock Threatens to Prolong Steel Strike

Tom M. Girdler

Uncompromising positions taken by both sides in the strike by the C. I. O. when three major steel companies refused to sign union contracts resulted in a deadlock which threatens to prolong the tense fight. Bitter denunciation of Republic Steel Co. officials by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. head, following the death of six pickets in a clash at the South Chicago Republican plant, was followed by an ultimatum of Tom M. Girdler, Republic president, that the corporation would not sign a contract. Meanwhile, strikers continued to picket Republic offices in Cleveland, below, and company plants at Warren and Niles, where airplanes were used to land emergency food supplies to besieged non-strikers.

Members of the association will also make brief memorial statements.

Funeral service for Atty Scott will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Stark Memorial in charge of Rev. Herbert J. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial will be in Grandview cemetery.

The officers, waiting for Watkins, saw him drive into the garage and then enter his home. He disappeared from his house as the men searched his auto.

The chase started last night in Youngstown when the state agents heard a statement by Watkins, who, they said "bragged" about his ability to supply all the liquor that was needed around Youngstown where Sheriff Ralph Elser has enforced a ban on all sales of drinks due to strike troubles.

Hoping Watkins would lead them to a still, the state agents trailed him from Youngstown south through Salem but enroute to Lisbon Watkins disappeared. When he appeared at his home at 6 a. m. today the officers were waiting, but again Watkins did a fade-out act. The liquor and the automobile were taken to Youngstown.

RATE INCREASE
HERE IS ASKED
BY GAS COMPANY

Request for New Franchise
Is Filed With
City Council

DECLARE RETURN
NOT SUFFICIENT

Will Submit Facts For Study by Ordinance
Committee

The Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, supplying gas to consumers in this section of the state, has asked city council to accept a new franchise for Salem
which would increase the present rates.

This was disclosed today by members of council, following a conference between council and gas company officials.

Gas company officials point out that the company is not now receiving a fair return based on the amount of its investment and, they assert, in keeping with recommendations of the utilities commission.

Council instructed the gas company representatives to prepare an ordinance, setting down the detailed facts of the proposal, and submit it to the ordinance committee of council by next Tuesday.

Council is understood to be against any plan for increasing the utility rates and the gas company's ordinance or franchise will be studied thoroughly before probable action is taken at the next regular council session, June 15, it was explained today by councilmen.

A committee meeting of council is expected to be called before then to definitely decide on the issue. The acceptance, revision or refusal of the gas company's request for a new franchise, however, will be made when council convenes at city hall on Tuesday, June 15, Mc-Arthur said today.

TWO SENTENCED
TO HARD LABOR

Girl And Choir Boy Sweetheart
Given 29 to 30 Years In Slay-ing of Her Mother

(By Associated Press)

JERSEY CITY, N. Y., June 3.— Gladys MacKnight, 17, and her former choir boy sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 19, were sentenced today to 29 to 30 years each at hard labor in state prison for the murder of the girl's mother, Mrs.
Helen MacKnight.

The sentences were imposed by Judge Thomas P. Meany, who presided at the ten-day trial which ended a week ago in the conviction of the young couple of second degree murder.

The maximum penalty the judge
could impose was 30 years.

The state had asked the death penalty for the pair, each of whom accused the other from the witness stand of striking the hatchet blows which killed Mrs. MacKnight in the kitchen of her Bayonne home on the night of July 31, last.

The girl said the slaying resulted from her mother's discovery of Donald "petting" her.

Calm and with heads bowed,
Donald and Gladys stood before Judge Meany for sentence and heard him say:

"I have no quarrel with the verdict of the jury."

He thereupon pronounced the sentences.

MIGHT MAKES RIGHT

The world does not want to disrespect Germany. It wants to understand that troubled country's problems honestly and, if possible, sympathetically.

In order to do these things, the rest of the world must have the benefit of proof that Germany wants to be respected, understood and sympathized with in its struggle to regain a place in the sun.

The affair at Almeida, following Germany's previous active participation in the Spanish war, indicates that the Nazi masters of the reich have embraced the old German philosophy that might makes right.

There is no justification in international law, no justification in the ethics of civilized peoples for reprisals such as the shelling of a town in a country which is not at war with Germany.

When the shelling occurred, Germany was acting formally as a member of an international patrol to keep outside nations, including itself, from interfering in the Spanish war. It betrayed itself by acting as a combatant.

In its role as a policeman, Germany was attacked. That was unfortunate, it was irritating. But without affording any opportunity for explanations, German warships proceeded to destroy without warning a town whose residents were in no way responsible for the original attack.

With the exception of Italy, all governments, officially or unofficially, condemn this mad dog procedure. Italy and Germany, relying on their philosophy of "the reason of unreason," do not seem to be troubled by this sickening demonstration of the irresponsibility of dictatorships.

Until they care to prove, until they are able to prove, that they are willing to be bound by the obvious obligations of international morality, they must expect to be judged, though reluctantly, on the basis of their overt actions denying there is any moral obligation on a government, except to coerce wherever coercion seems expedient.

In the meantime, the United States must decide what is the proper application of its policy of neutrality in the latest "undeclared" war being waged by the European school of force.

BITING AND CHEWING

Opening of hearings on changes proposed in the social security act this week will help to shed light on a dark subject.

It continues to be true that the act is so vast and has been discussed so slightly there is only scanty knowledge of its provisions.

This much is known, however. The social security act is the biggest project of its kind ever undertaken. It is an attempt to do in the space of a few years what other governments still are striving to do after decades of experience.

Some provisions of the act, such as the reserve fund which it sets up, are obviously faulty. There is much to be done before this piece of new legislation can be tightened up and put into satisfactory shape.

Yet, encouraged by the supreme court's decisions upholding the right of congress to provide pensions for the aged and unemployment insurance for the jobless, some now are demanding immediate enlargement of the scope of the social security principles to take in all the millions not covered by its provisions at present.

The motive is good, no doubt. Even so, perhaps this is a time to remember an admonition which frequently is directed against the strongest and worst of motives. Never bite off more than you can chew.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 3.—The illustrator E. Simms Campbell is the only Negro to achieve recognition in top ranking magazines. Such as Cosmopolitan, Esquire and the rest. His flair is for the pretty debutante against the drawing room background. He uses models of his own race for white delineations.

A very serious-minded young man, he occupies a studio and home in The Dunbar, an apartment house built for his race in Harlem. His wife is his constant companion and often poses for him. Much of his ability to paint and draw comes naturally although he has studied prodigiously.

Just now he is anxious to lay aside enough to study awhile in Paris and Florence. His first commercialized efforts were drawings he sent out by mail as he feared his color might be a hindrance. But he found no such attitude exists among art editors.

He is now receiving the same pay for his work as ranking artists. Many colored folk have shown a talent for the drawing board that was never marketed. Bert Williams was a deft caricaturist and the late Florence Mills did some creditable water colors.

Culinary scoop: I have the recipe for the pie dough that has made the crust of Mrs. Frank Menke's pies the admiration of every celebrity who has put his feet under the Menke table. Tad used to drool just talking about it and Babe Ruth would often invite himself to share in the gustatory joy. Anyway here's the secret: Before mixing water with pie dough, add 1 tablespoon of olive oil to water.

Then stir into dough in usual way. One tablespoon of oil is sufficient for pie for four people. Increase to ratio.

No one ever rose more spectacularly in Wall Street than Jessie L. Livermore in the sky-rocketing days when he was known as "the fair haired boy of the markets," and from which dizzy whirl he plucked fabulous fortunes. He was a head-turner in the cafes and at big sporting events. One of the outstanding celebrities. Then came his reverses losing a fortune today and regaining it tomorrow until the final crack-up. Then he dropped out of sight. But he's in circulation again. Now and then he is seen on the avenue going to a building where he maintains offices. He sends out for his lunches and is no longer on view at first nights or other spots where he was so long a personage.

Bill Robinson, the deservedly popular Bojangles of Harlem, can neither read or write. When he appears as a guest star on the radio the studio warns script writers not to change his dialogue or cues because he has already memorized them from the script reading. He has an uncanny memory and after lines are read to him twice he never forgets. While he is not sensitive to friends knowing of the educational lack for which he was not to blame, he doesn't care to have the studio audiences know, and always appears before the microphone with script in hand. His mentor is Jesse Owens, the sprinter, whom he admires greatly because of his college education. Owens reads and rehearses the stuff with him.

I lived at an uptown hotel where Shoeless Joe Jackson of the Chicago ball team put up when in New York. He could not read nor write but had been taught a scrawl that could be deciphered as his signature for registering. In the dining room he ate with a fellow player who knew of his deficiency, but Jackson always studied the menu carefully as his friend wrote out their orders. In the evenings he would sit in a conspicuous place in the lobby as though earnestly reading an opened magazine.

Thingumbobs: The Arthur Samuels are motoring in France this summer... Irving Hoffman with whiskers would be a ringer for Joseph Pulitzer as a young man... Hannen Swaffer, fiery London critic, has written a play with a spiritualistic theme... Jed Kiley who started the night club vogue in Paris has visited only two night clubs in America... Andre Maurois thinks no food is so inspirational to writing folk as hot onion soup... Jim Tully is writing a book of hobo verse... Grover Whalen was selected by a London tabloid as New York's best dressed Coronation visitor.

Speaking of illiteracy, Kin Hubbard's pet story concerned the illiterate in an Ohio town who ran a drug store speakeasy. One of those places with a window full of empty corn salve boxes and nothing behind the prescription case save a barrel of whiskey. Every morning the proprietor would sit out front as the town went to work, professing to read the Cincinnati Enquirer. One morning as he held the paper upside down upon which was the picture of a battleship just launched, a passerby called: "What's the news today Uncle Billy?" It was during the Spanish American war and, holding up the upside down newspaper, he replied: "Those Spanish scoundrels have sunk another battleship!"

THE STARS SAY :

For Friday, June 4

The auguries for this day point to much success, with the sudden precipitation of unlooked-for openings and opportunities of a very promising and surprising character. This may involve change, but it means advancement and progress, possibly in new environments and with fresh contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an active and progressive year, with the preferment or support of employers, superiors or of those in high places.

A child born on this day may be capable, energetic and probably original and inventive, attracting the attention of important persons or superiors. They may be fond of travel and change and should make a success of employment in unusual work.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

CONSTIPATION

ONE OF MY readers inquires whether it is true, as somebody told her, that constipation in children is unimportant. She wants to know, too, if eventually the child will outgrow it.

No child should be permitted to suffer from this affliction. It is actually a condition of neglect.

There is no excuse for the continuance of constipation, because it can always be prevented or overcome by following certain simple rules of hygiene.

Habit time for evacuation should be established at an early age. In fact, many of the authorities believe this training should begin in infancy. The sooner the teaching is begun the easier it is to establish a habit which makes for good health.

Combat Disorders Later
Once a child has been educated in this matter, he is equipped to combat and even to avoid many of the chronic disorders of later life.

I speak of this because it is a well known fact that persistent constipation leads to chronic disturbances and undermining of health.

When a child is troubled this way it is well to include certain foods in the diet of the youngster. Not only are these foods essential to proper growth and development, but they will help prevent constipation. Provide in the daily diet fresh fruits and vegetables.

Do not permit hasty eating. Each morsel of food should be slowly and carefully chewed. Never allow bolting or hurried eating.

Adequate amounts of water should also be taken. Many children suffer from constipation only because they neglect to drink sufficient water. This undoubtedly explains the failure to overcome the trouble even when there is given a diet rich in vitamins, fresh fruits and vegetables.

Of course, there are other conditions which may bring about constipation. For example, a child who has a small fissure or other abnormality at the vent will avoid the evacuation as long as possible because of the pain it causes. In such a case, medical care should be provided. The trouble must be corrected.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. V. V. T. Q.—I am a sufferer of faulty elimination. What can I do? I am very nervous. Can you tell me how I can be helped?

A.—Constipation is usually due to improper diet. Correct your diet. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope. 2. Nervousness can usually be traced to some definite source. Make every effort to improve your general health. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Copeland is glad to answer inquiries from readers who send an addressed, stamped envelope with their questions. Address all letters to Dr. Copeland, New York City.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

The dolls were made of kitchen utensils, which were part of the gifts presented. Miss Scullion, yellow and white flowers, corresponding with other table appointments, were banked in front of the bride elect.

flood prevention and drought emergencies would have been an easier
one.

After saying he had studied the subject intensely for almost a year and had discussed it with many senators and representatives,
he said:

"My recommendations in this message fall into the same category
as my former recommendations relating to the reorganization of the executive branch of the government."

"I hope, therefore, that both of these important matters may have your attention at this session."

The reorganization program would make permanent the national resources board, which could coordinate the development of regional planning.

Cooperation and a share in the financing of many of the projects by states and localities would be expected, the president said, because "improvements in our national heritage frequently confer
special benefits" on regions immediately affected.

Excepting the Tennessee valley,
Columbia valley and Mississippi valleys, the President said the work of the other regional authorities—at least in their early years—
would consist chiefly in developing integrated plans to conserve and safeguard the prudent use of waters, water-power, soils, forests and other resources of the areas entrusted to their charge."

key of the Inre, that the most moving of all idylls has just unfolded itself.

"The illustrious wedding which innumerable hearts will celebrate in secret today had for its celebrant
the mayor of a little town of Touraine.

In saluting in its name of a prince who was the well-beloved sovereign of a friendly people, and for whom his highness has chosen from a noble country to which we are attached with the same precious bonds—greatness and glory—, permit him who has just received the mutual consent uniting your destinies to give you . . . the most sincere wishes for your happiness . . .

When the couple re-entered the turreted chateau from the terrace during the cocktail intermission between services they went separately to the music room where I was seated with the other guests.

The Rev. Mr. Jardine, his glasses on his nose, stood beside the hastily improvised altar—made up of borrowings from neighborhood churches—wearing his white surplice and waiting to read the service.

He performed the service without the authority of the church,
which does not like remarriage after divorce. He did it, he said, on the authority of his conscience alone.

Edward, accompanied by his best man, Major Edward Dudley Metcalfe, came up the corridor from the dining room and passed the point where we guests were assembled.

He stood before the altar, in the center of which stood a two-foot golden cross.

A moment later, Herman L.
Rogers, steadfast American friend of the couple, escorted in the bride.
Soft notes came from the organ
as Marcel Dupre played a wedding prélude. It made a peaceful setting of the scene.

The Rev. Mr. Jardine immediately began reading the marriage ceremony. He took it from the Church of England's old book of common prayer.

Calling the duke by all his given
names the vicar asked:
"x x x Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David x x x wilt thou love her, comfort her,
honor her and keep her? x x x x"
"I will," the duke answered loudly.

The minister then asked the duchess, calling her "Bessie Wallis", if she would "obey, serve, love and honor."

The bride repeating after the parson, answered in steady, hushed voice:
"and to obey until death dis-us part."

Windsor, also following the minister's reading, took the wedding ring of Welsh gold from the Rev.
Mr. Jardine and slipped it on his bride's finger.

"With this ring I thee wed," Edward said, "x x x and with all my worldly goods I thee endow x x x."
The vicar called upon the assemblage to pray, asking that God give his blessing "to this man and to this woman."

"May they remain in perfect love and peace together," the preacher added in prayer.

"Those whom God has joined together let no man put asunder
. . . I pronounce that they be man and wife together, in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, Amen."

It was exactly 12:14 p. m. (6:14
a. m., E. S. T.) when Edward and Wallis arose, man and wife, from the white satin cushion on which they had knelt to receive the church's unwilling blessing.

Now the guests arose and headed for the long table that was crowded with trays of lobster, baked ham, pastries and other delicacies for the buffet wedding breakfast.

In the center of the table, surmounting the whole array, was a great six-story wedding cake trimmed with white frosted forget-me-nots.

Champagne was passed to all the guests and Major Metcalfe proposed a toast to the happiness of the newly-married couple.

The bridegroom, in bubbling spirits all morning long, was as self-conscious as a boy at graduation
when his friends called upon him to speak.

He shifted first to one foot and then to the other, abashed and at a loss for words.

He just thanked his guests for coming.

I, one of the few newspapermen
permitted to witness the ceremony, was in a position to describe the marriage exactly as it took place.

Later, I talked to the bride and the bridegroom and saw at first hand their exuberant happiness.

Leaving our silk hats in an anteroom, we were escorted by Rogers into the large salon where the civil ceremony was performed en-

CHILDREN'S DAY RITES PLANNED

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 3.—

in Presbyterian colleges. He was defeated by Dr. Charles F. Wishart,
now president of the College of Wooster at Wooster, O.

The growing spirit of harmony in
the church was illustrated when Dr.
Clarence E. McCarney of Pittsburgh, a Fundamentalist, yielded in his opposition to renunciation of
war.

The assembly then proceeded, but
with many dissenting voters among
the approximately 900 commissioners (delegates), to instruct a committee to prepare an amendment to
the confession of faith and catech-
isms which would renounce war
"as a method of settling international disputes."

The confession now says that
"Christians x x x may lawfully,
under the New Testament, wage
war."

Despite its preliminary approval
of the anti-war proposal, the assembly adopted a pronouncement
pointing "with pride" to "those who
felt it to be their Christian duty to defend our nation" and reaffirming
"our patriotic devotion to our country
and our willingness to do our duty as our conscience shall direct."

Anti Pacifists Win
The anti-pacifists won a victory
when the assembly rejected pro-
nouncements, recommended by its
social welfare committee, deploring
the proposed expenditure of "one
billion dollars" by the federal government for armaments in the next
fiscal year and protesting against compulsory military training in colleges.

A resolution proposing that the church give moral support clothing
and medicine to adherents of the Loyalist government in the Spanish revolution was rejected. It was offered by John A. MacCallum of Philadelphia.

Bell Case Is Back
COLUMBUS, June 3.—The long
litigated Ohio Bell telephone rate
case was back in the hands of the
state utilities commission today,
remanded there for further action
by the Ohio supreme court.

It instructed the commission to settle the case "not inconsistent
with the order of the supreme court
of the United States," which cri-
tiqued the commission's method of
adjudging the utility's property value.
Refunds and interest totaling nearly $18,000,000 are involved.

Sales Increase
COLUMBUS, June 3.—Ohio retail sales in dollar volume increased 18 per cent during April over the same month last year. Ohio State university's bureau of business research announced today.

Dayton reported the greatest gain in total sales with a 39 per cent increase. Other gains included: Akron,
13-8, Canton 29-1, Cincinnati 21,
Cleveland, 14-2, Columbus 13-6, To-

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your bowels don't digest.
It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour,
sunk and the world looks lunk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere cheat movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing

WASHINGTONVILLE, June 3.—

in Presbyterian colleges. He was defeated by Dr. Charles F. Wishart,
now president of the College of
Wooster at Wooster, O.

The growing spirit of harmony in
the church was illustrated when Dr.
Clarence E. McCarney of Pittsburgh, a Fundamentalist, yielded in
his opposition to renunciation of
war.

The assembly then proceeded, but
with many dissenting voters among
the approximately 900 commissioners (delegates), to instruct a committee to prepare an amendment to
the confession of faith and catech-
isms which would renounce war
"as a method of settling international disputes."

The confession now says that
"Christians x x x may lawfully,
under the New Testament, wage
war."

Despite its preliminary approval
of the anti-war proposal, the assembly adopted a pronouncement
pointing "with pride" to "those who
felt it to be their Christian duty to
defend our nation" and reaffirming
"our patriotic devotion to our country
and our willingness to do our
duty as our conscience shall direct."

Anti Pacifists Win
The anti-pacifists won a victory
when the assembly rejected pro-
nouncements, recommended by its
social welfare committee, deploring
the proposed expenditure of "one
billion dollars" by the federal government for armaments in the next
fiscal year and protesting against
compulsory military training in colleges.

A resolution proposing that the
church give moral support clothing
and medicine to adherents of the
Loyalist government in the Spanish revolution was rejected. It was offered by John A. MacCallum of Philadelphia.

Bell Case Is Back
COLUMBUS, June 3.—The long
litigated Ohio Bell telephone rate
case was back in the hands of the
state utilities commission today,
remanded there for further action
by the Ohio supreme court.

It instructed the commission to
settle the case "not inconsistent
with the order of the supreme court
of the United States," which cri-
tiqued the commission's method of
adjudging the utility's property value.
Refunds and interest totaling nearly $18,000,000 are involved.

COLUMBUS, June 3.—Ohio re-

ed 18 per cent during April over
the same month last year. Ohio State

in total sales with a 39 per cent increase. Other gains included: Akron,
13-8, Canton 29-1, Cincinnati 21,

Report New Clues As Hunt Goes On For Missing Co-ed

CLEVELAND, June 3.—Two new clues from the southwest gave new impetus today to the search for pretty, blonde Ruth E. Baumgardner, missing one day less than a month from the Ohio Wesleyan university campus at Delaware, O. Receiving a telegram that a girl hitch-hiker stopped Sunday at an eating place in La Mesa, N. M., Private Detective Gaston Sticker requested his agency's operatives in Dallas, Tex., to fly at once to El Paso, where the girl said she was going.

"Ruth Baumgardner stopped at my place and bought lunch," M. M. Whorton, restaurant proprietor in the New Mexico hamlet, wired Sticker, who was retained by the 22-year-old senior's parents to investigate her disappearance. "Wearing jay-blue corduroy jacket and orange slacks," the telegram continued. "She said she was writing poems. Signed register 'Baumgardner from Ohio'."

Answering a request for further information, Whorton replied he was certain the hitch-hiker was the one whose picture was printed in an El Paso paper along with a story about the girl's father, Carl Baumgardner, offering a $500 reward for information leading to the finding of his daughter.

Sticker said he received another telegram last night from a man in Waco in east-central Texas, saying he was certain he had seen the Ohio co-ed entering a picture show there.

Theater Attractions

Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in "Night Must Fall," at the State Friday and Saturday.

"Night Must Fall," with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell, which shows at the State theater Friday and Saturday, is an experiment in defiance of tradition.

A new type of murder story, "Night Must Fall" is unfolded on the screen with a technique as different from any employed before as was "The Thin Man" unique in its handling.

A star known for sparkling, frothy roles of the most sympathetic sort, Montgomery now greets his fans in the new picture as one of the most fiendish of murderers.

The adaptation of Emyln Williams' play, which ran 53 weeks in London, is said to depart from all the traditional scenario formulas.

Montgomery's fans will have the surprise of their lives. They will meet an entirely new person, a thoroughly false and bad one.

Throughout the whole story impends the threat of his murderous impulse. And Rosalind Russell has the difficult task of playing a plain girl struggling with her need for love and her loathing of the only man, whom she is convinced is the criminal, to excite the emotion in her.

Besides Montgomery and Miss Russell, the cast includes three members of the original stage troupe. Dame May Whitty, Kathleen Harrison and Marie Tottenham, and also Alan Marshall, Matthew Boulton and E. E. Clive.

Will Rogers in "David Harum" will be seen for the last time tonight at the State.

Charles Starrett, popular western player, and Peggy Stratford, who has played with him in several pictures, have the leading roles in "Trapped," which will be played Friday and Saturday offering at the Grand. Tonight only at the Grand is the comedy hit, "More Than a Secretary," with Jean Arthur and George Brent in romantic leads. Also in the cast are Lionel Stander, Ruth Donnelly, Reginald Denny and Dorothea Kent.

Personal Property Tax Income Shows Decided Increase

LISBON, June 3.—Collection of personal property taxes in the county for the first half of 1937 showed an increase in proportion to real estate payments a report completed Wednesday by Treasurer George Boice indicates.

Collections, including both tangible and intangible taxes, exceeded payments for the corresponding period last year by $38,922.75. The total was $126,541.78 as compared with $87,619.03 for the preceding period.

East Liverpool contributed $45,133.28, of which $2,643.28 was in the form of delinquent payments. Arrears in all parts of the county added $9,788.94 to the total amount collected.

Salem paid $35,343.62. Of this amount $2,552.43 was delinquent. Intangible taxes for this city totaled $13,162.33 and tangible $19,628. For the same period last year Salem paid $25,307.38—an increase of nearly $10,000.

East Liverpool's increase over first half collections last year was $14,732.38. For the corresponding period in 1936 $28,200.90 was paid in.

The rural districts contributed very little to the aggregate with the bulk of the money coming from cities and villages.

SALEM JUNIOR LEGION PITCHER HURLS NO-HITTER

Major League Baseball Awaits Showdown Between Dean And League President

Davis Fans 18 Batters In Giving Salem Juniors Win Over East Palestine Club

Legion Twirler Records No-Hit Game, But Is Prevented From Shut-Out by Palestine Run in Sixth Inning; First Salem Victory

The city's baseball faithful who lined Centennial park's small bleachers sections last evening got their eyes full and it wasn't altogether from dust either.

What they saw between the clouds of dirt constantly floating over the diamond from unrolled roads was a no-hit game, pitched by sixteen-year-old Wally Davis in giving Joe Kelley's Salem Junior Legion team a 3 to 1 victory over East Palestine Juniors, county champions.

Davis, an auburn-haired youth with plenty of speed, set 18 East Palestine batters down by the strike-out route as he pitched the no-hitter, which was kept from being a shut-out by Palestine's one run in the sixth frame.

The victory was the first of the season for the Salem Juniors, who lost their opening game last Saturday to Leetonia.

A junior in Salem High school, Davis had complete control of the game all during the seven innings. He walked six Palestine batters, but only two of these reached third base. It was the second time in as many games that he has turned in an exceptional pitching performance.

Against Leetonia he hurled effective ball, striking out 13 batters, but lost the decision when his mates gave him poor support in the field.

The one run which prevented Davis from recording a no-hit, no-run feat, was scored in the sixth inning when Patton, one of the two Palestine players to reach third after walking, stole home and Catcher Bud Dean dropped the ball after tagging him out at the plate.

Patton kicked at Dean's arm as he raced into the plate and the force of the kick knocked the ball from the Salem catcher's hands.

Along with his splendid pitching performance, Davis hammered out a double to drive in one of Salem's two runs in the last half of the fifth inning. Mike Guappone scored on Davis' two base blow, while Rogers accounted for the other run in the fifth frame after pounding out a single to get on base. The third Salem marker was scored by lanky Ed Zilavy on a circuit hit in the sixth inning.

Patton went the full route on the mound for East Palestine, granting four safeties and striking out 12 Salem batters.

BLANTON HURLS THIRD SHUTOUT TO SPANK BEES

Ruffing Records Fourth Straight Win; Mungo Boosts Dodgers

The after-math of Dizzy Dean's suspension by National League Presy Ford Frick was the prime piece of business on today's baseball agenda.

But, while Dean was being banned and refusing to sign any and all apologies yesterday, three other old-established firms and two new ones were making potent bids for recognition on a basis of services rendered, rather than relations severed.

The trio of the veterans were in the order of their teams standing: Darrell Elijah (Cy) Blanton, Charley Ruffing and Van Lingle Mungo.

Blanton pitched his third shutout in setting down the Boston Bees, 2-0, and keeping the Pirates on top of the National heap; Ruffing, got his fourth straight victory in a seven-hit, 8-4 shellacking of the Indians to stretch the Yankees' American league margin to four games; and Mungo, big Brooklyn right-hander who pitched the Dodgers to within a half-game of the Cards by halting St. Louis 6-2.

The newcomers also belong in baseball's battery division. One is Lefty Clyde Shoun, 22-year-old Chicago Cub recruit, whose 2-1 victory over the Giants was his fourth of the year and the Cubs' seventh straight, and George Robert Tebbets, the Tigers' chunky third-string catcher whose eleventh inning homer with two on gave Detroit an 11-8 verdict over the Senators.

Young Shoun already has built up a name as a Giant-killer. Three of his four victories have been scored at the expense of Bill Terry's club, now only a half-game ahead of the Cubs.

Tebbets, getting his chance through the injury to Manager Mickey Cochrane, is batting .407 for the eight games he has played. His game-winning homer was his second in three days and broke up a wild ball game during which the Tiger infielders made six errors.

In the only other game played the Cincinnati Reds, with three double plays to their rivals' four, whipped the Phillies, 8-4. The Athletics, at St. Louis, the Red Sox, at Chicago, were rained out.

Yesterday's series-opener provided a combination of both poor and effective hurling and bangup fielding.

Six hurlers, three to a side, walked 17 men. Johnny Vander Meer, who started for the Reds, gave free tickets to eight in the five frames he worked, struck out five and allowed but three hits. He and Gene Schott and Lee Grissom who succeeded him, were pulled from hoists three times by as many double plays.

Philadelphia added four more twin killings.

Big Ernie Lombardi was the star of the Reds' offensive, his first inning single driving in two runs and his homer in the fifth scoring Jordan ahead of him.

REDS HOPES UP AFTER WINNING

Cincy Still Trying to Reduce Gap Between 8th and 7th Places

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—Their spirits bolstered by an 8 to 4 victory, the Cincinnati Reds faced Philadelphia again today, hopeful of reducing still further the gap between them and seventh place.

Veteran left-hander Al Hollingsworth was scheduled to pit his mound ability against that of Wayne La Master, freshman port-sider.

LEADING GOLF PROS PREPARE FOR NATIONAL

Inverness Tourney At Toledo Tunes Up for Open Competition

By FRITZ HOWELL
TOLEDO, June 3.—A star-spangled field of 16 embracing the upper strata of America's golf talent which plans for funds and not for fun, launched a preview of the National Open today as the $4,600 Inverness invitational four-ball match play tourney opened.

The four-day classic, starting just a week before the National event gets under way at Oakland Hills course at Birmingham, Mich., is expected to serve as the "tip-off" on who's who in the race for the crown now held by Tony Manero.

Manero is not an Inverness entrant, but the field has three former National Open champions, the present and several past P. G. A. title-holders, and a host of crown-wearers from lesser tournaments.

The Inverness tourney, in which each of eight pairs will meet all other pairs in 18-hole match play clashes, with no eliminations, had these contests on today's program:

Henry Picard-Johnny Revolta vs. Paul Runyan-Ky Laffoon.
Denny Shute-Lawson Little vs. Ralph Guldahl-Sam Snead.

Only one round was on today's slate, but the pros will go into a "two-a-day" act from Friday through Sunday.

Under the Inverness scoring system the players hole all putts and finish all 18-hole matches. A team "up" at the end of the match is given a "plus" in the standing equal to the number of holes it finishes ahead of its foe, while the defeated duo is given a "minus" of the same number.

At the finish the scores of each team's seven matches are combined, and the twosome with the greatest "plus" gets $1,000. The second place gets $800, and the prizes decrease until the last twosome collects $200.

Ky Laffoon and Walter Hagen won a year ago, but Hagen is on a world tour and the Chicago Cherokee paired with Paul Runyan for the 1937 event.

'Loud Mouth' Dizzy Declares He'll Quit Playing Before Signing Letter Of Apology

Showdown Due Today When President Frick Meets With Dean And Manager Frankie Frisch; Disciplinary Action Breaks Like Bomb Shell

NEW YORK, June 3—Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean today tossed down the gauntlet to President Ford Frick of the National league, declaring he would quit baseball rather than sign the letter of apology tendered following his definite suspension "for conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball."

The show-down was due today when the hurling ace of the St. Louis Cardinals and Manager Frankie Frisch conferred with Frick in the league offices. But meeting or no meeting, Dizzy was on record as declaring he would go home and spend the remainder of his life playing golf rather than apologize for something he insists he never said.

Frick's disciplinary action, which broke like a bomb-shell on the sports front yesterday, came as a climax to a series of incidents that have kept Dean in the headlines since the spring training season. The latest sequence began May 19 when the New York Giants and Carl Hubbell beat the Cards and Dean 4-1 in a game that ended in a ninth-inning riot.

Dizzy was fined $50 for his part in the free-for-all, the outgrowth of a balk called on him by Umpire George Barr during a Giant rally in the sixth inning.

Subsequently, Frick charges, Dean spoke out of turn about the league in general and its president and umpires in particular. The star right-hander was quoted as saying he would give $1,000 to the newspaper man who would print exactly what he (Dean) thought of Frick, that he would not play in this year's All-Star game, if selected, and that "George Barr and Ford Frick are the 'two biggest crooks' in baseball today." The latter statement was attributed to Dean at a father and sons dinner at Belleville, Ill.

"It's down to the question of whether Dean is bigger than the National league," said Frick, a newspaper man before he succeeded John A. Heydler as head of the circuit in 1934. "I don't think he is but this can all be settled quickly if Dean sees the error of his ways and frankly apologizes to the league for the things he has said or implied and puts it in writing."

Schmeling To Tell Over Radio How He Would Have Fought
NEW YORK, June 3—Max Schmeling won't be in the ring battling Jimmy Braddock tonight. Rather, he will be on the radio.

What's scheduled is an interview with Clem McCarthy on WJZ-NBC at 7 o'clock, a short time before he would have been mixing it with Braddock in the Madison Square Garden bowl in New York. A dispute over the contract for the fight led to court proceedings.

Portsmouth Leads Mid-Atlantic Loop

COLUMBUS, June 3—Portsmouth held a full game edge on Springfield and Canton of the mid-Atlantic league today, making the Red Birds' 14 to 11 victory over Johnstown their 17th season's win. They have lost seven while Springfield and Canton each has won 16 and lost eight.

The other game last night was Charleston's 7 to 2 defeat of Akron. The Canton-Dayton and Zanesville-Springfield contests were rained out.

DULUTH, Minn.—A plan for a "calf orphanage" is being pushed among dairy herds in the Arrowhead region of Minnesota as a means of improving dairy herds. Under the plan calves from the better cows of a herd would be farmed out to the orphanage at a nominal cost to be later brought back for use in the herd.

KENT—Kent State university has granted students permission to substitute golf for the required gym classes.

TOLEDO CLIMBS NEAR TOP POST

Association's Surprise Club Only One Game Out of First

CHICAGO, June 3 — Toledo's hustling Mud Hens, an almost unanimous choice to get nowhere in the American association this season, were only a game out of first place today.

The Hens climbed to within reaching distance of the leadership last night by handing the fading Milwaukee Brewers, sensation of the early part of the campaign, their tenth straight beating, 10 to 9, in 10 innings.

Toledo thumped Al Milnar and Newell Kimball for 16 hits, while Sullivan allowed Milwaukee 10.

Minneapolis, in third place right on Toledo's heels, lost a chance to cash in on the Brewer defeat by dropping the opening game of the series to Indianapolis, 10 to 6.

St. Paul made full use of 10 hits, the longest of which was a double by Bill McCulloch, to defeat Louisville, 7 to 5, in another series opener.

Joe Gibbs pitched effectively to help Kansas City to a 2 to 1 decision over Columbus.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News Classified adv. columns.

"Rich Girl-Poor Girl" by FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER I

When he awakened and looked from the windows of his lower berth he saw the river, blue under a flawless June sky, the steep streets and dirt roads and little houses of small towns, the lilacs still in bloom in this north country, and, across the river, farms of Canada sloping to the water's edge.

Jonathan Kimber looked at his watch and whistled, pressed the porter's bell and thrust his tousled dark head from between the swaying green curtains, looking up and down the aisle. The porter came, black and amiable, and Jonathan asked:

"Almost in?"

"Yessir, I was just coming to call you...."

"Have I time to shave?"

"That depends," but you got about fifteen minutes."

When Jonathan emerged from the lavatory shaven, dressed and in his right and cheerful mind, they were running through the outskirts of the town. The porter brushed him off, chattering of the weather. "It's been a long winter," said the porter, "seemed like spring wouldn't never come. Thank you, sir."

A few minutes later they pulled into the small station of Riverport and Jonathan swung himself down the steps. A row of privately owned taxis stood waiting for the few passengers and he beckoned the driver of one.

"Six twenty Senator Street," he told the man, smiling, "and I must say I like your town—what little I've seen of it."

"It ain't bad," conceded the taxi driver cautiously. "Six twenty Senator—? That'll be Doc Ballard's." He climbed into the car, a five passenger coupe, and eluded at it as if it were a recalcitrant horse. "You a friend of Doc's?" he inquired casually.

"I hope so," Jonathan told him pleasantly. "I haven't seen him since I was a kid."

The car shot away, turned on one wheel and jerked over cobbled streets toward the main street of the town. The driver said and spat vigorously from the window:

"Well miss him, sure enough. Won't be the same place after Doc Ballard leaves. Brought me into the world and my kids after me. Staying long?"

"Just a day or so," Jonathan answered, stretching his long legs.

"I didn't catch the name. Where you from? New York?"

"Kimber," his fare told him, "Jonathan Kimber. No, I'm from the Middle West."

The driver remarked presently that he had a cousin who once went to Hollywood. He swung around another corner and Jonathan, peering from the window, saw that they were traveling down Senator street. The houses were, without exception, frame, built in the usual verandah-and-gable style of the small American town, and most of them were set almost flush with the street. But the street was wide and lined with maples and every house had its yard and garden and between each a stretch of very green lawn.

The car jerked to a stop before a neat white house, with green trim, an ample porch and brass plate on the door. Lilacs flanked it, and Jonathan, getting out, could see the big back yard and the three apple trees beyond. The driver took his bag from the front seat and preceded his fare up the worn wooden steps and rang the bell heartily.

Doctor Ballard answered. He was a short, stocky man with a rubicund face and a shock of unruly white hair. The taxi man announced, "Brought you a visitor, Doc," and Ballard, taking the bag from him said severely, "Glad to see you got him here all in one piece. How's the rheumatism, Pete?"

"Okay," responded Pete. "Well, so long. . . . Hope you enjoy your visit," he added, suddenly remembering his manners, and loped off down the steps and into the car.

"I'm certainly glad to see you," Ballard informed his guest. "I planned to meet the train but I had to go out 'round five this morning and just now got in. You have not had breakfast, have you?"

"No," replied Jonathan, following his host into the cool, dark center hall. "I couldn't drag myself up so I slept all through the twenty minute stop. . . . Ran into some men I knew in the city night before last and we took in a show and a night club and then sat around until dawn talking. Here, give me that bag."

"Well, breakfast's ready," said the doctor, "and I hope you haven't any new-fangled notions about orange juice and a slice of toast. If you have, Evelina's heart will be broken. Come on up to your room."

Jonathan followed him up the stairs to the room which overlooked the garden. He put down his bag and looked around. He said, "I'm liking all this better and better."

"You'll get used to it," said the older man ambiguously, and went to the stair head to shout, "Evelina," he announced, "we'll be right down."

"I ain't deaf," replied a sharp feminine voice from below stairs, "you haven't any call to yell at me. Coffee's on."

The doctor grinned and looked at Jonathan. He said apologetically, "Evelina's getting along in years, her disposition isn't what it was and it never was very much, at that. Be a room's next door."

A few minutes later they descended the stairs and went into the big sunny dining room. Evelina, small, spare and belligerent as a starved sparrow, was waiting for them. Doctor Ballard made the introduction carefully. "Evelina," he said, "this is Doctor Jonathan Kimber, son of my old friend and classmate. And this, my boy," he told Jonathan, "is Mrs. Jones. Evelina for short, who has been my boss for more years than I care to count."

"It ain't an easy job," admitted Evelina gravely, and betook her

"Yessir, I was just goin' to call you."

immaculate starched person to the kitchen.

Breakfast was of the type to which Jonathan in his younger days had been accustomed. It wasn't the least like the roll and coffee of his recent year in Vienna, nor was it reminiscent of hospital fare. It consisted of fresh fruit and hot cereal, bacon and eggs, sausage and pancakes, mounds of butter and pitchers of syrup, rich cream in unsurpassed coffee, and muffins.

"Golly," said Jonathan with reverence.

They ate, talking occasionally but for the most part in a companionable silence. Afterwards Doctor Ballard sighed, loosened his belt and offered the younger man a large black cigar. Jonathan a large large black cigar. Jonathan shook his head. "If you don't mind," he said, and produced a disreputable pipe.

"Let's go back to the office," suggested Ballard. "I've got to go out on some calls a little later. My office hours are in the afternoon, seeing as it's Saturday. I have to go up to the hospital, too. Take you along, so you can see how things work. . . . But we've time for a little chin first."

He explained, leading the way, that his living room served as a waiting room for patients. "Handy," he told Jonathan, "of course while Mame was alive, we had to have other arrangements, she couldn't stand 'em tramping through her good rugs. So we let 'em in the side door, and managed."

The office proper now consisted of two rooms, furnished with roll top desks, glass instrument cases, and two worn black leather sofas. There was ample sunlight and air to combat the ancient medicinal odor. But this was an odor to which Jonathan was accustomed and which he preferred to any garden or synthetic perfume.

"Sit down," said Doctor Ballard.

Jonathan sat down.

Save time - with safety on CONCRETE

If you're like the vast majority of drivers, you travel faster on concrete without knowing it! Check up on your next trip and see if it isn't so.

Concrete makes your car run better; lets the motor settle into a sweet, steady hum that literally eats up the miles. It relieves you of tension and fatigue. There are no ruts to fight; no bumps and jolts to tear at the steering wheel; no tendency to skid or slip. Without a conscious thought, you go faster because you know you're safer on concrete!

Of course you know that concrete roads are economical from the standpoint of upkeep. But do you know that they actually cost less to build than other roads of equal load-bearing capacity? And that they cost less to drive on than inferior surfaces?

"An Open Letter to Henry Ford" gives the facts about concrete. Free for the asking.

ST. LOUIS—"Fish hooks man" That's the story of George Everett, 19, of Valley Park, Mo. Everett jerked his fishing pole out of the Meramec river and a big catfish came to the surface. There the hook became dislodged from the fish's mouth, flew up and gashed Everett's nose.

CLEVELAND—Members of Town and Club 6 staged an "Old Album" contest to show how great grand-father looked when he went courting and how great grandmother was dressed on her wedding day. Prizes were awarded for the oldest and second oldest album brought to the club's meeting.
